1. Finding good keywords
2. What are keywords
   Keywords are terms that you use to find books and articles
3. What makes good keywords
4. Good keywords are terms that
5. Relate to your topic
6. Are specific to your topic
7. And would be used by authors to describe your topic.
8. Examples of good keywords
9. The scientific name for your topic
10. The inventor/discoverer/ author of an item
11. Synonyms for your topic
12. How do you generate good keywords
13. Read the question that you are trying to answer, underline the important words
14. Find synonyms for the important words
15. Do background research on the topic to find more information that will help you find more terms.
16. For example The question: What special characteristics did Archaeopteryx, Velociraptor, and Microraptor share? Why is this significant?
17. Initial keywords: Archaeopteryx, Velociraptor, and Microraptor
18. From the article about Archaeopteryx
19. We find the terms theropod, oldest known bird, and impressions of feathers
20. Based on our background research we have some other terms that may be good keywords
21. Theropod
22. Bird
23. Feather
24. dinosaur